- Name: Aiden Riley Eller
- Vulnerability: Weak or failing security programs are often due to management.
- Mitigation:
 - One easy solution is to retain a security advisor to guide the program.
 - Build this relationship exactly as you would for internal counsel.
 - Trust the advisor to select "implementation" consultants or employees.
 - Set a fixed annual budget and expect schedule variance.
 - Plan and measure progress using a maturity model, like BSIMM.
 - Begin with quarterly engagement, accelerate each year.
